V-P Ramblings

Submitted by
John Johnson

I seem to be running late this month, much to Carol's distress. I was supposed to have this article finished yesterday! This has been a busy month and it is not getting any better. As I sit here at the computer, I just finished cleaning and packing the car for Corvettes at Carlisle. Due to the driving distance, I have to get up at 3:00 AM and leave the house by 4:00 AM to meet with my friends near East Berlin, to travel to Carlisle together. Enough about that, after all this is supposed to be a Corvair related article.

At the last meeting we had a smaller than usual group meet to discuss Corvair Day. Even though small in number, I believe all the bases are covered to make this another great show. We decided that we need another meeting before Corvair Day, so we have reservations at Hoss's for September 10th. Bruce and I met at the ACA Museum on August 12th to prepare the annual scavenger hunt. We spent over two hours working on it and, hopefully, it will be both challenging and fun. Bruce had already submitted ten questions, so we added several more and "hallelujah" we did it. Thanks Bruce, you saved me a lot of time and I greatly appreciate it. My thanks go out to all the members of this Club. No matter what is needed, there is always someone that steps forward. To me it comes down to the basic fact, we are all friends!

By the way, Dave Steigauf is planning a great trip to Williamsport to Penn Tech and various nearby attractions. Check for more information from Dave on page 6 of this newsletter. He has done a lot of work and it shows. Thank you Dave.

Cold Comfort: 1962 Chevrolet Corvair Factory Air Conditioning

By Tom Halter – July 6, 2017

(Doing my part to keep Corvair Summer alive) As readers of my three-part Cold Comfort series on factory air conditioning know, I have a preternatural obsession with automotive air conditioning.

The response to those posts were so positive, I've decided to turn Cold Comfort into a recurring series, featuring interesting early automotive A/C setups that I run across. This will allow me to dig a little deeper into the various units that I was only able to gloss over in my original series.

To kick things off on my (hopefully) long-running series, where better to start than with this Chevrolet Corvair I spotted at a recent car show. The Corvair has long been a source of fascination on this site, and Paul recently put together an interesting piece on the gas powered heater that was available on early Corvairs.

The Corvair had an interesting transformation from economy car to pony car progenitor with the introduction of the Monza in 1961. This shift upmarket necessitated the introduction of features expected in this vehicle class, including air conditioning. The factory air conditioning ("De Luxe Air Conditioning") system was first offered in the spring of 1961, at cost of some $350, or about 16% of the cost of a new Monza coupe.

In addition to the factory system, a dealer-installed "hang on" unit was also available, but this feature car has the De Luxe system, although the compressor is clearly not an original. Corvair Cognoscenti (ooh, I loved writing that) know that all 1962 Corvairs have their spare tire mounted in the engine compartment, to free up space in the front located trunk. However, if you opted for air conditioning, the compressor, receiver, and massive condenser coil took up most of the free space in the engine compartment, relegating the spare tire back to the front. Such is the price of comfort, I guess.

Other changes include a different drive pulley to accommodate the extra belt for the compressor. The engine fan (not visible under the condenser) would have done double duty, pulling air across the condenser and cooling the engine.

Inside, there is a surprisingly well integrated (but alas not color matched) panel which combines the controls, two "eyeball" vents and a "barrel" vent. The evaporator is mounted to the firewall above the passenger footwell, like most modern cars.

Chevrolet certainly didn't go out of their way to promote air conditioning on the Corvair. The 1962 Corvair brochure has no photos of the option, and makes only a passing reference to it on the spec page. It was available on any two- or four-door model with a radio (necessary for mounting the interior panel).

Interest in the option was suitably low, with the take rate for A/C on the 1961 Corvair at a paltry 1%. In 1962, take rate increased to a whopping 2.5%. While this works out to roughly 5,000 cars, I'm sure that far fewer than that survive today. Air conditioning was not available with the turbocharged Spyder or Corsa engine.

For the heavily revised gen2 1965 Corvair, the system was fully integrated into the new dashboard. The condenser still rode on top of the fan for 1965, but for 1966 and 1967 (above), it was moved up against the rear firewall. Factory air was dropped in 1968, as the air pump for the emission system now occupied the space where the compressor had been. At least the two-belt pulley was able to be used for that.

September Cruise to Penn College of Technology Penn Tech

Submitted by Dave Steigauf

We are planning an overnight trip to Williamsport, PA to tour the facilities at Penn Tech College of automotive restoration for the weekend of September 28-29. We will tour Penn Tech on Saturday afternoon, then travel to Eagles Mere to tour the Eagles Mere Auto Museum and the Eagles Mere Air Museum on Sunday then return home in the evening. Penn Tech is a premier restoration training college of automotive restoration, working on cars from 1900-1972.

About this program:

Preserve the past using the technology of today in state-of-the-art labs with expert faculty by your side. One of only a few across the nation, our auto restoration program covers everything you need to know to restore vintage vehicles to their former glory. From basic painting and non-structural repairs to advanced woodworking and upholstery installation, students master the art of restorative techniques. Thanks to small class sizes, lots of lab hours, and access to museum-quality vehicles, you'll leave real-world ready to impress even the most discriminating collectors and museum professionals.

Since we will be coming from different directions, we will meet at the Ranch House Restaurant. It is just north of the intersection of routes 11/15 and 22/322 which is north of Harrisburg. We will depart from the restaurant at 9:30 AM and have a pit stop in Selinsgrove before continuing on to Williamsport, where we will eat lunch before going to the college to start our tour around 12:30. The tour will last about two hours.

Some people will be departing for home after the tour while the rest of us will head to the hotel. You do not have to drive a Corvair for this trip, but if you have a running car and since we are going to a restoration facility, it would be nice if you could.

The trip is about 2 1/2 hours each way. We will be staying at the Motel 6 in Montoursville, which is on the way to Eagles Mere. If you are planning to go you need to reserve your hotel room as soon as possible as rooms are going fast for some reason. The motel has free cancellations up until the day of arrival. The Motel recently changed from a Super 8 to a Motel 6. Here is the contact info: You can register online with www.Trivago.com or call 800-238-0767. The room cost is $74.00+ taxes. If you are planning on going or if you need additional info, please contact me Dave Steigauf at davescorsa@gmail.com or call 717-898-7927.

Coryair Cooks Corner

Cheesy Cauliflower Soup

Ree Drummond, The Pioneer Woman

Similar to potato soup in that it's creamy and decadent, Ree's cauliflower-based soup is filled with Monterey Jack cheese and topped with bacon and fresh parsley.

Level: Easy      Total: 50 min      Active: 35 min      Yield: 10 servings

Ingredients

4 thin slices bacon, cut into small bits
 1 white onion, finely diced
 1 head cauliflower, broken into small florets
 1/2 teaspoon Cajun spice, or more to taste
 Kosher salt and freshly ground black pepper
 8 cups (2 quarts) low-sodium chicken broth
 4 tablespoons (1/2 stick) butter
 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
 2 cups whole milk
 1 cup half-and-half
 3 cups grated Monterey Jack cheese, plus more for serving
 1/4 cup sour cream
 2 tablespoons minced fresh parsley, plus more for serving

For the Topping

3 cups panko breadcrumbs
 3 tablespoons olive oil

Directions

1. In a large pot, fry the bacon pieces over medium-high heat until crisp. Drain the bacon on a paper towel and set aside. Pour off the grease and return the pot to the stove.
2. Add the onions to the pot and cook over medium-high heat for 3 to 4 minutes. Add the cauliflower, sprinkle with the Cajun spice and 1/2 teaspoon black pepper and cook, stirring, until the cauliflower starts turning golden brown, another 3 to 4 minutes. Stir in the chicken broth, bring to a boil, reduce the heat to a simmer and cook for 15 minutes.
3. Use an immersion blender to puree the mixture slightly, or all the way if you prefer. (Or use a regular blender; just don't fill too full.)
4. In a separate saucepan or skillet, melt the butter. Sprinkle in the flour and whisk to form a paste. Pour in the milk, then continue cooking until it thickens. Remove from the heat and stir in the half-and-half.
5. Pour the white sauce into the soup. Turn the heat to medium high and bring back to a boil for 3 to 5 minutes. Reduce the heat to low, stirring in the cheese and sour cream until the cheese is fully melted. Stir in the parsley.
6. Taste and adjust the seasoning. Serve with a little extra cheese, a sprinkle of bacon and a sprinkle of parsley.

First State Corvair Club's Show

Submitted by
Dave Steigauf

I attended the First State Corvair Club's show in Wilmington, Delaware along with Junkman Dan and Junkmaiden Mo earlier this month. We had perfect weather and 28 cars showed up for their show. I also ran into a couple of people that frequently come to our CPCC shows. Mike Slotwinski and his wife and Nick Gravino and his wife. I do apologize to the wives for not remembering their names, but I can't remember what I had for supper last night, "old timers disease". We had a good time while there and I did walk away with a first place in the late model open class.
